(from Newsletter #124)

It's almost certainly due to configuration issues with Adobe Reader.
Here's how to fix the problem:

1. Remove (this step is essential) all existing copies of Adobe Reader (you may have multiple versions installed)

[for Windows 7 go to Control Panel > Programs and Features and then select Adobe Reader and uninstall]

2. Download and install the latest version of Adobe Reader (currently 10.1.2) from <http://get.adobe.com/reader/>

(make sure you deselect the McAfee Security Scan option before hitting the 'Download now' button)

3. Need help? Call Phil on 6258 1935

Mac users – sorry – you are on your own. (Ed: however on the same download site there are versions for Mac OS and alternate languages. You can see all the Mac Adobe Reader versions here. This is the Adobe for Mac software from the Macupdate site)
