

Ted was having a cigarette and talking to a couple of old ladies who were also smoking.

He felt a couple of sprinkles of rain and pulled out a condom, putting it over the lighted end of his cigarette.

One of the ladies asked "Why did you do that?"

Ted replied, "It keeps the end of my cigarette alight during the rain."

With that, one of the little old ladies dashed into the chemist's shop just near the bus stop. She was gone for half an hour.

When she returned Ted ask "Where on earth have you been?"

She replied, "The chemist had a heart attack."

Ted asked, "What happened to him?"

She replied, "I don't know. I asked for a packet of condoms and they asked me what size. I said bid enough to fit on a Camel."